WISCONSIN AFTER THE ELGIN BOARD

BILL INTRODUCED TO PROHIBIT TRUSTS CONTROLLING PRO-DUCTION OF WISCON-SIN BUTTER.

CHICAGO MERCHANTS 'HIT'

Alleged That Chicago Men Own
Creameries of State As Well As Controlling Elgin Market.

Madison, Feb. 1.—The first direct thrust at the "Elgin Trust" was made today by Assemblyman Hull in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature. His measure is not in the producer, the farmer, the dairyman and the owners of small creameries throughout the state.

Nothing is said about reducing the cost of living by a reduction in the cost of butter, but in behalf of the dairyman Assemblyman Hull throws his center into the ring as a "trust buster."

The bill presented declares that Wisconsin creameries are owned by a combination of Chicago produce merchants who "hoist down the price paid Wisconsin farmers for milk and cream and at the same time hold the price of butter to a high level by control of the Elgin butter board which regulates prices for this part of the country."

The measure of Assemblyman Hull would prohibit the formation of any butter trust. It would place heavy penalties upon any such that may be found in the state and all attempts to control the production of butter should be discouraged and prohibited by law.

Doubtless this measure will see its death in the committee room, but it is expected that a substitute measure may be evolved that will take its place and in some way regulate the work of the Elgin price upon the Wisconsin products not actually manufactured in Elgin.

Insurance Report.
The report of the insurance committee recommending a bill to provide expense money for the state insurance department incident to the examination of insurance companies out of the state was laid over today until tomorrow. ## CONFERENCE HERE OF COUNTY "DRYS"

County Prohibition Conference Had
All Day Session in I. O. G. T.
Hall Today.

There was a prohibition county conference held at the I. O. G. T. hall on South Main street today, sessions being held both in the morning and afternoon. The morning session started at 10:30 and the time was spent in general discussion. The work of perfecting a county organization was left until the afternoon. At noon all those present partook of a bounteous picnic dinner served at the hall.

A most interesting address was heard at 2:30 this afternoon by Quincy Lee Morrow, the well known prohibition campaigner of Brookings, South Dakota. Mr. Morrow outlined in his talk the practical method of conducting the "dry" campaign in the future, and spoke of the plans of the state and county organizations in the coming fight.

Owing to the fact that many of the representatives from different parts of the county were unable to leave their work at this time, the attendance was not what it should have been. Nevertheless, much along the line of a county organization was accomplished. Following is a list of some of the people who were present at the conference: F. J. Clark, W. T. Miller, Milton; W. P. Haynes, J. B. Hefner, Evansville; Rev. Mills, Milton Junction.

DECLARED LORIMER HAD KNOWLEDGE OF BRIBERY METHODS

Senator Brown Of Nebraska Assailed
Illinois Senator In Speech Before
The Senate Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—That Senator Lorimer had full knowledge of the bribery by which it is charged his election was procured was asserted by Senator Brown, of Nebraska, in a speech in the senate today.

He declared Brown concealed nothing from Sen. Lorimer, and that Brown did nothing to further Lorimer's election, but that Lorimer did not know about it at the time.

"Silent and frigid behind the scenes, knowing all that was being done for him by his agents and consenting to it not directing their every act was Lorimer himself," declared Brown.

He asserted that the Lorimer election "tells a story of shame and ignominy unparalleled in the history of legislation."

Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, who was an early critic of the White House today, said after coming from a conference with the president that he expected a vote will be taken in the senate within the next few days on the Lorimer case.

SCHOOL HOUSE TO BE MEETING PLACE FOR ALL CLASSES

Bill Introduced to Make Radical
Change—New Health Laws Proposed.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—Assemblyman Shultz of Oregon, Dane county, this morning introduced a bill to make the district school house the neighborhood forum for discussion of public questions and other civic, social and recreational activities.

The present law vests in the board of education or trustees the power to decide whether school buildings shall be used or not, but the Shultz bill repeals these sections. The only limitations are that organizations which use school houses must be "non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-exclusive."

An other bill by Shultz gives power to the board of review to raise or lower the assessments acting on their own knowledge or information, and not upon when a complaint is offered. Two bills by Assemblyman Harper of Madison are designed to take the health officer in towns and villages and the health commissioners in cities out of politics as far as possible. The new measures make the terms of office of the former two years instead of one and of the latter four years instead of two.

Dr. Harper has in preparation a bill to provide for medical inspection in schools at least once a year. However, prodding by the experience of two years ago, when a similar measure was defeated by the influence of the Christian Scientists, the new bill will make the inspection optional as to individual pupils, and the doctor thinks it will not be seriously opposed by the disciples of Mrs. Eddy.

The first bill providing for guaranty of bank deposits came in this morning, authored by Senator Paul Husting of Mayville, a democrat. The measure is patterned after the Nebraska law and requires each state bank to lay aside one fourth of one per cent of its annual deposits to constitute a fund to be retained by the banks instead of being turned over to the state treasurer.

TWO NOTED CONVICTS WILL BE TRIED SOON

Terms Of Gaylor And Greene, Now
In Federal Prison At Atlanta For
Wholesale Fraud, Expires
Soon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 1.—Messrs. Gaylor and Greene, two of the most noted inmates of the Federal prison here, will be released from that institution within a few days. Under the good-behavior rule their sentences of four years was cut down to three years and one month, which period will expire next week. The exact day of their leaving the prison has been kept secret, owing to the desire of the prisoners to avoid publicity. They will be met at the prison gates by the members of their families, who have resided in Atlanta the most of the time since Gaylor and Greene began serving their sentences. According to popular belief both prisoners have managed to retain a considerable part of their large fortunes and it is rumored that a long sojourn in Europe will follow their release.

It is doubtful if any case of its kind in the history of the country has attracted more attention than that of John P. Gaylor and Benjamin D. Greene, chiefly because of the long federal battle waged to escape trial. Their troubles began in December, 1906, when both were indicted by a grand jury in Savannah, Ga., of having conspired with Captain Oberlin M. Carter of the United States Engineer Corps. It had been demonstrated that Carter for years had conspired with the Atlanta Construction Company, of which Gaylor and Greene were the chief partners, to the end that only this company could bid for the work of river and harbor improvements around Savannah that Carter managed. The Atlanta Construction Company, of which Gaylor and Greene were the chief partners, to the end that only this company could bid for the work of river and harbor improvements around Savannah that Carter managed. The Atlanta Construction Company, of which Gaylor and Greene were the chief partners, to the end that only this company could bid for the work of river and harbor improvements around Savannah that Carter managed.

Carter was convicted and sentenced to prison and to pay a fine. Gaylor and Greene being arrested in New York City, began to contest extradition to Georgia. They carried the case finally to the Supreme Court, which decided against them, and on the eve of their being taken to Georgia they fled, leaving their bondsmen eighty thousand dollars. On May 1, 1902, they turned up at the Montreal, Quebec. Proceedings for their extradition were begun at once. The Canadian officers, finding delay, arrested and took them by boat to Montreal. The prisoners' lawyer tried to stop the tug and serve writs of habeas corpus but failed. With the prisoner confined in Montreal there was a repetition of the old struggle between the courts. The Quebec courts wanted the men taken there whereas Extradition Commissions La Fontaine wished to hear the case against them in Montreal. Finally the Quebec judge agreed and they were returned to that city. On August 13, 1902 Judge Carson dismissed all charges against the prisoners a decision which aroused a storm of protest in both Canada and the United States. The United States Government then applied for a writ of habeas corpus which was denied. Following their return to Savannah, Gaylor and Greene, who had already spent over seventy-five thousand dollars in their defence, appeared to the Supreme Court of the United States on a technicality, but they again lost and the judgment against them which covered a fine of the same amount as the money supposed to have been taken, was affirmed. The legal battle lasted over six years and it was not until the beginning of 1907 that the men were received at the Federal prison in Atlanta to begin serving their sentences.

IMPORTANT MEASURE TO BE CONSIDERED

Plan for Complete Revision of the Present System of Printing
Statutes Presented to Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—The most comprehensive bill, and in many ways one of the most important to be offered at this session of the legislature, was handed to the senate committee on revision this morning by L. J. Nash, who two years ago was appointed revisor of the statutes. The bill is in reality a complete revision of the existing printing laws and provides for some notable reforms in this department of administration of government.

This revision reclassifies public printing, which in time will enable printing companies to bid on individual clauses, and the new method of publishing a compilation of the statutes in force, together with the session laws, at intervals of two years, and also of occasionally issuing special editions of more permanent matter, is calculated to work a saving estimated at $10,000 to $20,000. This figure, of course, does not include the probable saving to be effected by the new provisions regulating the printing of annual reports and other public documents.

Although the report makes no mention of the fact, some persons profess to believe that the proposed revision of the printing laws really paves the way for the ultimate establishment of a public printers.

The report of the revisor which accompanies the bill refers to the fact that the revisor and his assistant, Arthur F. Holtz, have just completed the compilation of a "consolidated" edition of all statute laws, in triplicate, comprising statutes in force, statutes repealed and statutes amended.

This edition is maintained in the state library, and offers the only real opportunity of examining the statutes without being compelled to hunt through several sets of session laws, revised statutes, supplements, etc. A notable improvement is offered in the new system of numbering statutes, which is begun in the revised printing laws.

Instead of a miscellaneous collection of figures, dashes and letters, which are as incomprehensible to all but lawyers as the hieroglyphics of the ancient Egyptians, the decimal system is used. A "whole number" designates the chapter, which is used in numbering each section, and after the decimal point there is a zero in the tenth place, and then the numbering of sections is begun with the figure "1" in the hundredth place.

Thus in the case of the printing laws, the sections are numbered "20.01," "20.10," "20.25," etc., and whenever new sections are to be inserted between two original sections, they are to bear an added figure to the decimal point, as "20.015," etc. No page numbers are to be used, in order that reprints of new compilations, with added or amended sections, will not require re-numbering of pages and consequent unnecessary additions to the cost.

The bill gives the revisor the right to choose such acts of laws as he may desire to change, in any order, and until such revisions are adopted by the legislature, the old statutes are to be in force.

NEW YORK IN PANIC AT BIG EXPLOSION; TEN MEN KILLED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tenants of the big office buildings in the district were terrified. The report of the explosion set fire going along almost throughout the lower end of the city, causing a general confusion. Many people were injured by falling glass, none seriously. It is estimated the killed or fatally injured range from half dozen to a score or more. ## STATISTICS PROVE STUDENTS' STANDING

Refute Statements That Majority of Students Cannot Engage In Athletics Because Of Poor Scholarship.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—That only 28 per cent of the students of the University of Wisconsin who are eligible under the conference rules are excluded from intercollegiate athletics because of deficient scholarship, is shown in statistics just compiled by Dr. C. H. Husting, '96, and Registrar W. D. Hestland, for the February number of the Wisconsin Alumni Magazine.

In order to show the unreliability of rumors and unofficial statements to the effect that approximately three-fourths of the students at Wisconsin are ineligible for intercollegiate athletics because of deficient scholarship, Dr. Husting, who is a member of the athletic council, had the university statistician, under the direction of Registrar Hestland, go over the records of all men students in the university to determine their eligibility or non-eligibility for participation in intercollegiate athletics.

Conference Rules Cut Out 52 Per Cent
Of the 2,748 made students who might take part in athletics, 1,430, or 52 per cent, are ruled out by the rules of the Western Intercollegiate Conference which apply to all Wisconsin competitors in athletics as well as to the Badger institution.

Of the 1,430 ineligible under the conference rules, 1,116 are first year students, 314 are intercollegiate athletes, and 210 are graduate students and students who have taken a degree. If the scholarship of all students was above grade, and if all men were physically fit for intercollegiate athletics, there would be eligible 1,318 students, or less than half of the whole number of men in the university. As these rules apply to all conference colleges, the percentage of eligible students in other universities must be approximately the same.

Only 28 Per Cent Are Poor Students.
Of the 2,748 male students who were eligible for intercollegiate athletics, the statistics show that 377, or 28 per cent, are declared ineligible of low standing in their studies. The athlete, like all other students, must earn a mark of 70 in every study and must have a weighted average of 77 on a semester's work. These requirements have been in force for over 30 years.

After those ineligible under the conference rules and those ineligible for scholarship are taken out of the whole number of male students, 941, or 34.2 per cent of the total enrollment are available for intercollegiate athletics. Since the conference rules require that an athlete shall not be "deficient in any of his studies," Dr. Husting points out that in reality two-thirds of the male students are ineligible from participation in athletics, not by the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, but by conference regulations binding upon all institutions with which Wisconsin is in athletic competition.

WHY NOT BIBLES IN JANESVILLE HOTELS?

Some Organization if Not the Landlords Could Profitably Consider the Matter.

If Janesville hoteliers are not to be behind the times their rooms should be supplied with Bibles. At any rate the movement is becoming widespread, starting with the recent campaign of the Gideons in Chicago and extending to many of the cities in the west and middle west. The matter is brought home more forcibly by the recent action of the Gideons in the city of Beloit where over one hundred Bibles have been placed in the hotels of that city through the efforts of the association of traveling men.

It would not be a matter of copying Bibles but would simply mean a continuation of the movement which is rapidly becoming general. Hotelkeepers of the city are in the main favorable to the plan. Opinions are expressed to the effect that it could at least do no harm and that it was a thing that was bound to be done sooner or later.

General suggested that the supply of Bibles would have to be large if they disappeared with the rapidity of towels, keys, napkins and other articles which are spirited away in a mysterious manner in the majority of hotels. However, it seems hardly probable that these special books would be appropriated in this unseemly fashion when the nature of their contents is considered, and even if some persons find it agreeable to take them along would it not show an appreciation of good literature which is entirely commendable. It might be an excellent form of missionary work.

Traveling men, the majority of them, are very favorable to the plan and the fact that it had its inception with an organization of their order demonstrates the fact that Bibles in hotel rooms would meet with favor by the class of men most affected. It might be ventured as a mere supposition that such hilarity as was recently exhibited by a "knight of the grip" who was stopping here, would not occur so often, at least there have been stories to the effect that the presence of these books in the rooms had some such soothing effect.

Of course this agitation is not made on the ground that commercial travelers are a class which are especially in need of Bibles, but since the matter started within their own order, and since all are agreed as to its advisability, there is no good reason why it should not be done.

The matter of who will furnish the Bibles may be a problem. The local organization of Gideons is evidently a thing of the past, but there is another association of traveling men who might take up the work. If they are deluged, it might be a project for some of the numerous church organizations of the city. At any rate why not have Bibles in the Janesville hotels?

JAIL MAY NOT BE A HAVEN OF REST

Agitation Started to Institute Stone Pile for Prisoners at County Jail.

We'll may the "idle transient" and others who periodically find a soft berth in the Rock county jail, take heed and tremble in their shoes, for there is a movement on foot among the members of the county board to transform said county jail from a place where a warm bed and three square meals may be obtained, to a spot where there will never be a dull moment and everyone will be as busy as the proverbial bee.

In chapter 231 of the laws of 1909, the legislature empowered the county board of all the counties excepting Milwaukee county, to establish within their walls a stone pile, the necessary mauls and wedges and a keeper to see that the stone is properly "mauled" and "sledged." This being the case, agitation has been started among the supervisors of Rock county to make these provisions at the spring meeting of the board, in connection with the jail here. Without a doubt, the installation of such a system of labor at the above place would go a long way towards keeping some of the old standbys out of mischief and making them think twice before going to work for the county with no pay, when they might be outside of the confines of the prison realizing some pecuniary benefit from their toil and at the same time, enjoying the freedom of the open air.

Not that the institution as it is now maintained is any desirable place to spend from five to twenty days, but it could be made to be so much more disagreeable that the cost to the county of maintaining some of these "habitués" and "come-backs" would be greatly reduced simply because the number would not be so great.

Those who are advocating the establishment of such labor in this county, have other schemes in mind besides the stone pile. At present it costs the county about sixty dollars a season for coal to heat the jail. Cord wood in three foot lengths is very cheap in comparison. A man or woman sent to the necessary saw might reduce this to a size which would be suitable. Presumably the answer is, let the prisoners do it and save the county money and at the same time be certain that the time was not going to rest heavy on their hands.

INTERESTING STORY OF AN EXCISE LAW

Gettle's Measure Said to be a Copy of the Famous Graham Law of '72.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—The "deadly parallel" has been applied to Assemblyman Gettle's sweeping liability bill with which he started the state last week. The measure was introduced Jan. 26 and provides that the owner of the building occupied by a saloon may be held jointly liable with the keeper for any damages suffered by an intoxicated person or his family by reason of the purchase of liquor there in; also that the saloonkeeper is liable in the sum of $2.00 a day to any person who care for an intoxicated person. The bill is so radical that it attracted attention and reading of it disclosed familiar phraseology to the student of laws with the somewhat astonishing result that Mr. Gettle is said to have gone "way back to 1872 for the meat of his measure. Almost identical with whole paragraphs included with the change of but a word here and there, the Rock county man's bill is a duplicate of the famous or perhaps the infamous "Graham Law" of '72, which stirred up a tremendous political whirlwind in 1873 and resulted in the defeat of the Republican party and the loss of a second term for Gov. Washburn, and even this "Graham Law" was substantially a duplicate of the "Bond Law" passed in 1849 and repealed two years later.

Even in those early days measures as radical as the "Graham law" caused upheavals which differentiated party lines and the only change Mr. Gettle now makes is to cut out the bond feature of the old and add the liability for the owner in the new. He copied the balance of the measure almost verbatim and while it was hailed as a "new measure" by the press of the state, it proves to be one with an old and most interesting record. At the time of the original bill's passage in 1872 it was known as the Civil Damage Law. The second interesting parallel is that this early bill came from Rock county, the home of Mr. Gettle, being introduced by Alex. Graham, and in the interesting campaign which followed it was given his name. The legislature at that time was Republican and C. C. Washburn was governor, and that party was responsible for the law's passage. Vigorous opposition developed against the law and it was made the chief issue in the succeeding state election. The party and Gov. Washburn stood by the law and it was not repealed at the session of 1873 but this opposition joined with the Granger movement in the fall of that year and the Republican party was defeated and Wm. H. Taylor elected governor. The law was then repealed.

Naturally the third parallel comes to mind of the possible effect upon the Republican party if Mr. Gettle's bill should pass. It would make the owner of property rented for drug stores, department stores, hotels and places of like character in the state liable and the storm which will break on Madison when hearings on the bill begin will likely convince Mr. Gettle that he cannot serve old wine in a new bottle and not have it discovered.

This Gettle bill is but one of nearly a dozen on excise matters already in and there may be others to come but it is expected that they will all be received by the end of this week, so the real work of the lawmakers can begin.

WISCONSIN IS MOST PROGRESSIVE STATE

George Judson King of Toledo, Ohio Says Wisconsin Has a Right to Brag of Progress.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—"I consider Wisconsin the most progressive state in the union," said George Judson King of Toledo, O., in an interview today. Mr. King is field lecturer for the National Referendum League and is assisting Wisconsin legislators in the work incident to the advocacy of the initiative and referendum bills now before the legislature.

"Oregon must look to her laurels," he continued. "She has more democratic forms of government than you—at present. But you have gone farther than all others in enlisting expert service to work for the common good. You are doing things, notable things. I am sick and tired of hearing the old, old about of the orator at the country picnic or the political convention: 'Our state is the greatest in the union, the star that represents New York, Illinois, Arkansas or what-not is the brightest in the splendid constellation which shines upon the flag of the free'—and so on. But you in Wisconsin have a right to brag—at least modestly, and I think I could sit under that sort of oratory with a feeling that it was something besides wind."

"As an example of real and important things, I should note the work of the university in being of practical service to the people, and the expert work of your legislative reference library. Another thing of tremendous potency and which should have the best support from the state is the extension work of the university, with such men as Prof. Reber, Mr. Ward and that grand old pioneer in bringing needed information within the reach of the common man, everywhere—Mr. Frank A. Hutchins. What would not such institutions do for states now in the bondage of the darkness of ignorance where the 'boss' and all deadly corruption flourish because the people do not know the age in which they are living and what this great inorganic movement is all about? You have the ideas and the men. Great!"

An Old Maine Ferry.

The new bridge on St. John river removes a picturesque method of transportation. Van Buren, Me., and St. Leonard's, N. B., have been connected for many years by means of a primitive ferry. From shore to shore a great steel cable is stretched, fifty or more feet along the shore at the starting point. Upon this is hung a traveler, consisting of a wooden block, with a huge iron trolley wheel, at each end. The trolley runs on the cable and from each end of the traveler a long rope leads down and is made fast on the seow. This rope leads down through pulleys to a big wheel placed at one side and amidships. The wheel acts as a throttle and steering gear both, and by turning it one way or the other either end of the boat is headed upstream.—Portland Press.

AN OLD REMEDY

Beef, Iron and Wine is one of the good old remedies that has outlived a score of patent tonics, reasonable in price, a satisfactory tonic, appetizer and mild stimulant. There is nothing better for that tired, worried, listless feeling or run-down condition of the system after illness of any kind. It tones the whole system, stimulates digestion, gives you appetite, is a good iron tonic for weak, pale children or old people, far more effective than malt extracts or so-called wine of cod liver oil that depend upon their stimulants alone. Beef, Iron and Wine tones and sustains, it assists nature to recuperate, it's a food to the sick and nursing mothers.

Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, prepares our Beef, Iron and Wine. It's always fresh, made from the very best extract of beef, wholesome, properly aged sherry wine and soluble iron.

We don't sell ready-made, hand-made, factory-manufactured Beef, Iron and Wine. We believe and know that medicine should be compounded only by the experienced and scientifically trained.

Try a bottle of our Beef, Iron and Wine as made by Mr. Pfennig, 25c a full pint. Note its wholesome taste and invigorating effect. You will be more than satisfied. Get it at the Indiger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts. The drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

FREE PUBLICITY.

Never in the history of American journalism has there been such a flood of advertising matter seeking free publicity as at the present time. Every railroad has its press bureau, and every corporation its press agent. Every school and college of any importance keeps the press supplied with all sorts of reading matter pertaining to the institution. The state created a civil service commission and appropriated $10,000 for a salary list. No one has yet discovered the necessity for this commission, except to create a place for three or four patriots.

The press of the state is expected to publish gratuitously all notices sent out by this civil service board, as no money is provided to conduct the business in legitimate channels. The bill now before the legislature seeks to secure an appropriation for this class of advertising, both for the state and the state university.

Here's a scrap of experience that a newspaper man in Illinois had recently with one of the big steamship companies.

The following letter has been sent by Thomas Ross, Illinois State legislator, to the Hamburg-American Steamship Lines, 41 Broadway, New York City:

"In answer to your letter of Jan. 7, asking my opinion of your free publicity department, and its work, I say that at this time, I am starting with my family on one of the delightful cruises inaugurated by the Hamburg-American Line. This little party with which I will travel have already paid you $2,100 cash for fares and in addition, we expect to contribute to the salaries of your dining room stewards, your stateroom stewards, your deck stewards, your musicians, your chamber maids, etc. This is the way we do business when we require the service of the Hamburg-American Line.

"It appears that when you want to use the columns of the State Register, instead of going to our representative, whose office is in New York City, near your office, that you organize a free publicity bureau, and by making the work easy for the reporters and editors, you expect to work the advertising of your company into our columns without any expense to you, and it results in the demonization of our editorial staff, the injury of our news service, and the loss of our space.

"We have just the same use for and the same respect for your free publicity department as you would have for us, if instead of going to our representative, and paying our fares, we have already done, we would go to the officers of your ship and by offering to assist them in their work or by any other means of indirect bribery, you could try to work our passage on your boats without the payment of any fares whatever. This is the regard in which we hold your free publicity bureau.

"If you want to discuss this matter further with me, I will be in New York at the New Astor House, preparatory to sailing on one of your boats on Jan. 20, and would be pleased to take up the subject with you there."

IS IT THE PORK BARREL?

The fact that the Senate committee on commerce very promptly raised the total of rivers and harbors appropriations by several millions may or may not indicate that the "pork barrel" influence has again been operating to determine what projects or appropriations should be included in the measure. The total is not great enough to warrant serious criticism, nor is it likely that the President will feel called upon, because of his warning of last year, to interpose a veto. Nevertheless, it is possible that he might have himself some embarrassment by using his influence with the measure in committee to have the suspicious items carefully scrutinized.

"Pork barrel" legislation may be carried on independently of extravagant or extraordinary appropriations. The most pernicious feature of the system consists in the opportunity it holds out to the congressman who is simply seeking "something for his district," no matter what, to prove his fidelity to the interests of his constituents, or to some part of them. Congressmen who are looking for "something to take home" are in a position to intimidate those who are striving to accomplish something for the whole people.

In the present measure there are items which, upon their face, might well have been omitted. Their presence can be accounted for only on the theory that it was necessary to recognize those who "must have their hands in the 'pork barrel' the moment the hand is knocked in."

Still, there is this to be said of the present rivers and harbors measure: It is less objectionable than any of its recent predecessors. Moreover, the provisions it contains for raising the efficiency of the army engineer corps in dealing with the projects it is intended to cover, promise much better things for the future.

Civic pride is a great asset for any community. It means much towards the upbuilding of a city, towards the increase in business and population. The coming meeting of the Industrial and Commercial club represents this spirit. The organization, while yet in its infancy, has already accomplished much good and if nothing more was accomplished during the first year of its existence than taking steps to protect the shippers relative to railroad rates, it has done a great work. However, every citizen should take his part in the upbuilding of the city. The meeting next week Wednesday is open to the public and should be well attended.

It is a hard position to place the insurgent leaders in, this putting the question of Canadian reciprocity up to them all at once. Some of them do not know where to jump. Beveridge is the only one thus far who has come out in the open and endorsed the project. But then Beveridge is such a reformer to private life, anyway, so this may not count. However, President Taft has given his enemies a hard nut to crack and they are making dry faces over the job.

The man who can invent a breed of chickens that will not run directly under an automobile when it passes along a country road can make a fortune for himself. Talk about making a thousand dollars by any system with a city lot to work on, it will not be in it with the profits that the chicken owners of the country will pour into his official bank.

The famous "Mary Ann" primary bill is up before the legislature for their august consideration. Instead of even considering this proposition why not present a measure to repeal the primary law itself; at least give the people the right to vote whether it should be or not. That would be more to the point and not a plan to complicate and confuse the voters further.

Manchuria is having an awful time with its plague. Perhaps some persons may suggest that the loss of the Chairman's pig tails and their manufacture into "rats" for American kids has had something to do with the spread of the disease. You know "rats" are blamed for everything by scientists nowadays.

This influx of autos has taken a decided load off the shoulders of the humane societies. However, their energies can now be turned to some other channel of good work and humanity will be all the better.

England parliament opened today but the next question is, how long will it stay open? The suffragettes have something to say about that and even the house of lords are not yet entirely killed off.

When tired and worn my spirit leans upon these fiction magazines for such refreshment as I need. I read of many a story, of a crowd of many a camp, or of city.

These are the "killing tales" in which the fiction magazines are rich. And when I've read a few I seize some hatchets, bombs and snickersnacks, and run amuck and leave a trail of dead men in my native vale. I like good yarns that take the breath I'm fond of blood and sudden death, but in the fiction of today, the gentleman who starts to slay is not the kind that I endorse his work. He is often rude and coarse. O for the grand old musketeers we read of in our younger years. They killed so sweetly and well their victims, they left them as they fell. O for the yams of Walter Scott, whose heroes kept their claymores hot, who stabbed and scrapped in deadly hugs, and yet were gentlemen, not thugs. The fiction writer does his best, and gives us scraps of East and West he gives us buckets full of gore, but something's lacking, evermore. The author's tale of pirate gold and fighting men but leaves us cold. Alas, the thrills of youth are spent, and "Treasure Island" days are dead!

TO ALL READERS

The Gazette is anxious to bring each of its readers into closer touch with both the newspaper and each other. It would like to have them feel free to send in news items. Notices of parties, personal mention, happenings in your own community, accidents that may occur—in fact anything that you think would interest other readers. Matters of this nature can be telephoned to the editorial rooms. Call Rock county telephone 62, or Wisconsin phone 77 three rings.

Meetings of lodges, church gatherings, and special meetings of clubs it will be necessary to have written out and left at or mailed to the Gazette to avoid mistakes which might otherwise occur.

The columns of the paper are also open to communications on subjects of interest. Write your views of affairs, on one side of the paper only. Be sure and sign your name; it will not be published if you do not wish it to, and either leave or mail to the office.

Try this system and you will be surprised how much more interesting the reading of the evening paper becomes to you.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THOUGHT TRANSMISSION.

Is there such a thing as telepathy—the sending of a mental message from one mind to another? Who will say?

There are more things than are dreamed of in our philosophy. But—there is such a thing as thought transmission or transference.

I write down the words you are now reading, which are symbols of my thoughts. I have a definite mental picture in my mind. How do you get it? You look at the symbols and invent my action of putting down my mental picture. You take up the picture into your mind from my words.

And that is as wonderful as a wireless message by the Marconi system.

The transference may be of all sorts of thoughts—good, bad or indifferent, useful, useless or trivial.

Now, I have a helpful thought. Perhaps I have received that thought from the suggestion of another person or from a book.

I believe I can make that thought plainer to you or illumine it in such a way that it may inspire you on your rugged road.

What is my duty?

My duty is to write down that thought or idea so that you can get hold of it and use it in your life.

The teacher or preacher or writer who has helpful thoughts and is true to his kingdom must pass on to others the best that is in him. And thus is the world "upward drawn to God."

But suppose there is in me unwholeness. Suppose I have vicious thoughts, depraved ideas. I know these impure things will debauch and defile you.

What should I do?

Manifestly I should let them rot in my soul, not in yours.

Therefore when you meet a man or woman who seeks by suggestion or speech to drag your mind through the sewer of a filthy mind free from such as from a contagion.

When you come across an unclean thought in a book take up the foul volume with the tongs and throw it into the fire.

No man or woman or book has any right to wrong you in that way.

ROBIN IS DECLARED SANE

New York Bank Wrecker Must Stand Trial on Eight Indictments Standing Against Him.

New York, Feb. 1.—Joseph G. Robin, the bank wrecker, whose latest contention is that he is the second son of Alexander II. of Russia was declared sane by a jury in the face of the testimony of a notable array of alienists that he is insane.

The verdict struck everyone in the courtroom with amazement, especially William T. Jerome, who remonstrated with Judge Swann. The latter expressed his approval of the verdict and his delight at finding a jury that was not "fazed out of their senses by the testimony of noted medical experts."

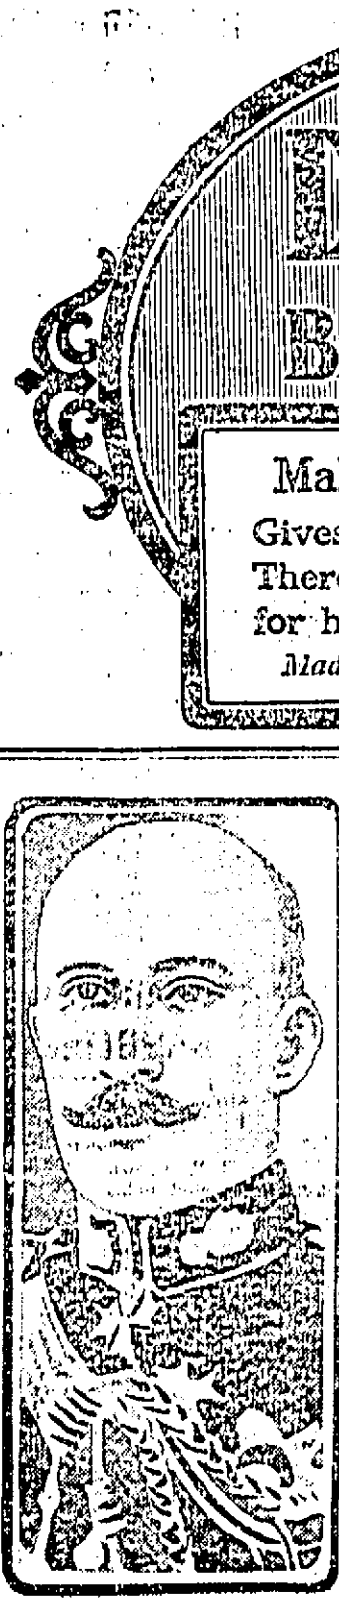

Robin will now plead to the eight indictments standing against him and will be tried at the February term of the supreme court.

THREE DEAD IN SNOWSLIDE

Ten Others Are Missing in Utah Canyon—Rescue Parties Hasten to Scene.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 1.—Three men are reported to have been killed and ten others are missing as the result of a snowslide at the Utah Cañon mine, in Big Cottonwood canyon, near Alta. Rescue parties have gone out from this city and Park City.

A heavy rainstorm prevails in the canyon and the roads are almost impassable. The men known to have been killed were in the office of the mine. The missing men were in the bunkhouse, which was overwhelmed by the slide. The known dead are Victor Person and two foreign laborers.

NEW GOVERNOR OF CANADA.

The Duke of Connaught, who will succeed Earl Grey next September, is the only surviving brother of the late King Edward. He is 60 years of age, a field marshal in the British army and was a personal aid de camp to the late king, who desired that he receive his present appointment. This is not his first trip to Canada, as he served in the Canadian army of 1870. He is grand master of the Free Masons of England. Besides the title by which he is commonly known he is Earl of Sussex, a Prince of the United Kingdom and of Saxo-Coburg and Gotha, and Duke of Saxony. His wife was Princess Louise Margaret of Prussia.

Bird Census.

Did you ever hear of a bird census—a census of all the birds in the United States? One would think that the result would be about as uncertain as the count of chickens before they are hatched. Nevertheless, the department of agriculture is taking a census of the birds and their habits. It is estimated that there are 1,400,000,000 of them—not including several millions of human geese, and as many human parrots, who echo what others say. This estimate would give us only about 17 birds apiece, and one is almost inclined to think sometimes that there are more than a billion sparrows in the United States. But the department is studying the birds to find out how they held or hoot, croak, with a view to diminishing those which injure, and increasing those which help by destroying the insects which so seriously injure grains and fruits.—Day Life.

To Those Who Pay in Advance.

POLITICIANS ARE READY FOR WORK

DEMOCRATIC ASPIRANT FOR MAYOR ALREADY IN THE FIELD.

SPIRITED CONTEST EXPECTED

Republicans Reluctant Regarding the Choice of Party Leaders.

With a county convention of the Prohibitionists in session at Good Templars hall today, a democratic candidate for mayor, John S. Nichols, already an announced candidate and J. J. Dullin, democrat from the Fifth ward, it may be said that the opening campaign of 1911 is formally opened. Viewed from an impartial standpoint the contest for nominations and office promises to be most spirited.

The announcement of the candidacy of J. J. Dullin for another term as alderman from his ward simplifies the democratic majority situation as his name had been mentioned for this office by his friends and it is certain had Nichols not decided to become a candidate he would have made the race. Mr. Nichols' announcement was published today in the Gazette and simply states he is a candidate, giving no platform, which undoubtedly came after the primaries and the republican candidate is selected.

On the republican side of the fence Dr. Judd and Alderman George Buchholz are the two men most prominent mentioned for the nomination, although it is known that strenuous efforts are being made to bring out a third candidate, a prominent business man in the city. Thus far these efforts have been unavailing and Judd and Buchholz are the only ones mentioned. The race between these two would look like a close affair in the possible outcome.

In the past years when there has been in the contest the democratic side of the fence many democrats have associated their names with republican candidates. This however promises to be a factor this year. It is expected that some of the present incumbents of the office will be called before them to give their ideas on the bill.

"There'll be no filtration with the primary like there was last fall when there were contests on the republican ticket. The twenty per cent law cooled their goose in the county and city then and they aren't going to let it happen again. There'll be one turn of the indicator for the party and that's all there'll be to it."

"Of course, I do not say that all of them will do that way. There will be a few who will vote a split ticket, but the democrats are going to have a ticket on the ballot if it is possible. When a man runs independent, the voters can't see his name on the ballot and he loses."

Thus far there has been no name mentioned for the nomination for city clerk and the present incumbent of that office, Roy Cummings, will doubtless be re-nominated and re-elected without any opposition. It is not probable the democrats will have a candidate for the place. Aldermen are to be elected in all the wards and in some it is expected there will be contests. Supervisors are also scheduled to be chosen.

Instances Occurring in Janesville Where Monuments Are Being Sold at Large Commissions by Men Who Have No Established Business.

When you place a monument you are placing something to the memory of the dear ones gone beyond. It is something you are purchasing once in a lifetime—it is something you wish to have look good and last forever. There are many grades of inferior granite on the market which are being used in place of good, durable goods. The so-called Carpet-bagger, who consists of nothing more than a few designs under his arm, may chance to ring your doorbell and tell you a fine story of his business and where somewhere, or representing some large quarry owner and should he get your order he sells it to some irresponsible dealer for such sum as he will be able to secure. In some cases the carpet-bagger demands a cash deposit of $10 and if that much or more is secured you are apt to never hear from him again—there are proofs for these statements. Beware of the door bell pullers. Purchase your monument where you'll get good, honest granite and a square deal.

OFFICE OF DIVORCE COUNSEL MAY GO

Bill Now Pending Before the Legislature for Consideration.

Those Rock county people who are undergoing or are contemplating undergoing divorce proceedings, will be interested to know that there is a bill pending in the present legislature, which has for its object the abolition of the divorce counsels in this state. This office was created by legislative enactment about two years ago and has for its purpose the speedy and effective settling of divorce cases in all applications for separation, where the party against whom the action is brought does not appear, an examination of the one seeking the divorce is made by this officer and the case is taken into the circuit court by him. In fact, in all cases of this nature, the divorce counsel acts as the mediator and when in his opinion, after a careful examination of the circumstances, the chances seem slim for a grant of separation, it falls to the counsel to put matters right. In this way many of these cases are kept out of court and much litigation is saved.

This bill was introduced, it is hard to say just what will be the result. It is safe to say, however, that if the law which created this office is not stricken from the statute books the duties of the counsel will at least be changed. The divorce counsel in this city is Otto A. Gostreich and no idea of what the thought of the proposed abolition of the office could be gained as he refused to be interviewed on the matter. Much interest is being stirred up around the bill and no doubt, in the past few days it will come before one of the legislative committees at which time it is expected that some of the present incumbents of the office will be called before them to give their ideas on the bill.

TEAMSTERS FORMED NEW ASSOCIATION

Teamsters' Association, Serving Practical Purpose of Union, Organized Last Night.

The Teamsters' Association an affiliation of practically all the teamsters in the city, was organized last night at a meeting and officers for the coming year elected. The new organization started out with a membership of about thirty. Another membership of about thirty will be held out when a scale of prices will be made out for presentation to the contractors of the city. The new association is intended to serve practically the same purpose as a union and is modeled after similar associations in other cities. Teamsters' intentions in other cities here are not as high as in other cities while the cost of keeping a team is just as great. It is understood that the scale of prices to be drawn up at the next meeting will be an increase over the present rates and that the contractors will be given thirty days in which to signify their agreement to the wage scale. The trustees of the association will be chosen next Wednesday.

QUIET FOLLOWING YESTERDAY'S RUSH

James A. Fathers Checking Up Accounts After Heavy Inflow Of Tax Payments.

Following upon the rush of yesterday and Monday, a calm, like that just after a heavy storm, hangs over the office of the city treasurer today. In the neighborhood of three hundred payments were made by Janesville taxpayers, bringing the total for the month of January up to about 3,000. This is about the usual number paid, but is between forty and fifty behind the number last year. Of the balance of the payments due, a majority of three per cent of the amount of the taxes will be made in an additional charge. For many people it is more convenient to wait until February before squaring their accounts with the city treasurer and as the extra charge is quite small, they choose to do so.

GOLDEN RULE STORE CHANGES HANDS.

New Stock to be Added. The Policy of Giving Great Big Values at Little Prices to be Followed Out.

Starting today sees a change in the management of one of the finest little stores in town, The Golden Rule, at 109 West Milwaukee St. The business has been taken over by Mr. H. D. Schooff, who comes from Chicago. He is expected to add new stocks daily until a complete and up-to-date line of 50 and 100 goods and notions may be on display. Mr. Schooff expects to make this store popular by giving in every instance the greatest possible value for the amount of money expended.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION MET LAST NIGHT AND ADJOURNS FOR TWO WEEKS

Were To Have Elected Officers For Coming Year But Postponed It Until Later Date.

Nothing was accomplished at the meeting of the Southern Wisconsin poultry association held last night, as the new officers were not elected, the date for the election was set at two weeks from last night. At this time the regular business of the organization will be taken up and the matters relating to the recent show will be settled.

REFUSED A DRINK HE SHOTS FRIEND; THEN WOUNDS SELF

Mad Act Of Drunk Crazy Man At Monroe Last Night—Formerly Lived In Janesville.

Monroe, Feb. 1.—George Hecrey, the Louisiana Creole cigar maker, who last night shot and killed Fred Liechti because the latter refused to serve him with a drink and then shot himself twice went into Liechti's saloon and wanted more liquor. He was refused and drawing a revolver shot the man down and then turning the weapon on himself fired two shots into his body, one following a rib around the body and was taken out near the shoulder and the other is under the skin at the shoulder.

Hecrey is a cigar maker by trade and formerly had a shop in Janesville, but moved to Monroe to go into business there. He had been drinking for several days and last evening was in a bad way. He was refused a drink and he shot himself. He was taken out near the shoulder and the other is under the skin at the shoulder. Hecrey was immediately arrested and taken to the jail where he is now confined. Both men belonged to the Concordia lodge of I. O. O. F. Liechti was most popular among the Swedes and was married and leaves a widow and four children.

TWO ARRESTED ON GAMBLING CHARGES

Alleged Offense Took Place In Rear Of A Billiard Room On Milwaukee Street.

J. W. Brown and Herbert Ross were arrested today and arraigned in the municipal court this afternoon, charged with gambling. The alleged offense took place at 149 West Milwaukee street, in the billiard and pool room of which W. J. Reed is proprietor. They pleaded not guilty to the charges and their trial was set for tomorrow at ten o'clock.

The warrants for the arrest of the two men were sworn out this morning after a conference of Chief of Police Appleby and City Attorney H. L. Maxwell. It is said that Chief Appleby has secured a number of witnesses in the case and feels reasonably sure of convicting them.

STOLEN BANK DISCOVERED AND OWNER LOCATED

A broken savings bank, found by a local bank, one of the kind sold to depositors, was found along the railroad tracks near the Five Points this morning by Officer Peter Champion and Cornelius Cronin. The ownership of the bank was traced to Henry Kenney, who is employed by Rotstein Bros., and was stolen from him about two weeks ago. He knew who had committed the theft and as the party who had taken the property had settled up, he did not make a complaint. The bank was evidently broken open with a chisel.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE JANUARY MEETING OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF ROCK CO.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County.

Gentlemen: Your Committee No. 14 to whom was referred the reports of the trustees of insane asylum and almshouse and the report of Sup. Treadway has the honor to report that it has examined the vouchers and reports now on file with the County Clerk and find the same to be correct.

Your committee would state that they have examined the reports of Superintendents of the Poor, viz., Geo. Stoen and A. P. Anderson of the First and Second Districts respectively and have checked up the vouchers and statements now on file with the County Clerk and find the same to be correct. We have also examined the vouchers and statements of Simon Sherman, chairman of the special relief committee, and find them correct as follows:

Adopted.
Sup. Hughes submitted the following:

Your special committee to which was referred the matter of taxing incorporated Villages for bridge tax, beg to make the following report:

Section 1319, subsection of the revised Statutes, amended by Chapter 357 of the Laws of 1909, reads as follows: "Nothing herein contained shall authorize the levy of any tax upon the property of any city or incorporated Village, required by law to maintain its own bridges."

In its own right, the Village of Clinton, which was incorporated under the General Law, that under Chapter 40 of the Statutes, in connection with Section 1319, such Village would be obliged to maintain its bridges in case there had been any within its limits.

We found that the Village of Clinton was assessed in 1909 $122.11, in 1910 $14.43 ($30.44), and the Village of Milton in 1909 $15.02, 1910 $52.85 ($68.77), and that the Village of Orfordville has not been assessed for bridge tax.

In view of our construction of the law and the decision of the Supreme Court, we are of the opinion that the Villages of Clinton and Milton have been illegally taxed for bridge purposes, and recommend that the amount paid by these Villages be refunded and charged back to the several towns.

T. N. HUGHES,
J. M. GLEASON,
W. E. STONEMAKER,
Committee.

And we offer the following resolution:

Resolved, By the Board of Supervisors, that the County Clerk be and is hereby directed to draw orders on the County Treasurer for the repayment of the said sums to the said Villages entitled thereto and a sufficient sum is hereby appropriated for that purpose. The County Clerk is further directed to charge back said sums to the towns liable to the payment of the same.

Supervisor Gray moved that the annual report of County Superintendent O. D. Antisdel, as submitted at the April meeting of the County Board, in April, 1910, be printed with the published proceedings of the County Board, as are the other proceedings of the Board.

This motion is made because in the opinion of committee number five, the report of the Superintendent of the schools contains matter of general interest and value to the people of the County; and because the people wish to know, and ought to know, about the work of the Superintendents of the schools.

I move the adoption of the motion.

Adopted.
Janesville, April 26, 1910.
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County.
Gentlemen: In accordance with the provisions of this board the annual report of the County Superintendent is made at this time.

The first few lines of this report are more especially to the members of the board from the former regional superintendent district, in whose service I spent six and one-half years.

Last spring the usual round of visits was made, and the usual examinations held. Graduation exercises were also held in the high school here for graduates from the country schools, with a good attendance and good interest. This year we plan to have graduation exercises for the whole county, believing that it will help to unify the work of the schools. Exhibits of some work from the country schools were collected and taken to the state fair at Milwaukee; and Sand County was the only county that made an exhibit as that from the east half of Rock County. This year we expect a good exhibit from the whole county.

In addition to the regular work for one-half the county, during the spring, a large share of the examinations of teachers from the west half of the county, and a large amount of correspondence from there, came to me as Superintendent of the whole county. Having no assistant until July 1st, I trust that it was done satisfactorily.

The financial report for the close of the year, the second superintendent, my own process of elimination my report last year was left out of the printed proceedings, therefore you do not have it to refer to.

In closing my report to the second superintendent district I wish to thank members of this board who have in many instances helped and encouraged me in the great work of making our schools better and more helpful to the children. And the friendliness and helpful co-operation of hundreds of people will ever be dear to my memory. In spite of human weakness and mistakes, there is an upward tendency in our schools. Some districts have not improved much, but every district has improved some; and any one who will carefully compare conditions several years ago with conditions and results now must admit that there has been a general and decided change for the better. This improvement is due to many influences, some within the county, some from without the county. And there is an increasing interest of the people in their schools, and a responsive effort to make them stronger, more helpful, and more practical, so that they may better fit the children for future citizenship and usefulness.

We believe that the consolidation of the two superintendent districts, taking effect July 1st, 1909, will prove advantageous to this forward movement of the schools. In the past there have been divisions and opposition of interests in the county, there should now be harmony, unity of interests, and co-operation.

The task of organizing and bringing together the two parts of the county, with its 240 teachers in 170 places, and nearly 8000 people of school age, and its thousands of adults (leaving out the cities of Janesville and Beloit), has been a very great task. It has made much more correspondence and much more work with 400 people. This is likely to have occurred again. The work of systematizing and writing up these records to date has been nearly completed. Several teachers' meetings have been held, which have helped to organize the work of the county. Most teachers are doing their work faithfully and loyally, a large majority of the school boards are working well for the improvement of their schools, and the work seems well under way for a general advance of the whole county.

The appointment of a deputy should also be mentioned. But few applied for the position, and most of them were barred out by the state law which requires that a deputy hold a first grade certificate and have experience in teaching. Finally I secured Miss Edna Hemingway, in teaching and some knowledge of the office work, and she has proved efficient and helpful in her work.

In the summer I held at Janesville the largest teachers' institute in the history of the county, with an efficient corps of instructors. Here the teachers worked so well that their energy and eagerness to learn were often spoken of, and good results from the week's training given there have been manifest in many of the schools.

One of the most difficult problems in the school work is that of keeping enough good, experienced teachers. The only solution to this problem seems to be the reorganization of all our country districts and the combining of several of them into one graded school. This consolidation of districts is no longer an experiment, but has proved to be practical and very beneficial. Even the little two grade schools scattered throughout the state are showing results far beyond their comparative importance. I commend this thought to your careful consideration.

In July a school board convention was held for the whole county. The attendance was good, and the interest excellent. These conventions are becoming a power in the state, giving new ideas, impulses, and energy, to those who are directing our school districts, and their good results are manifest in most of our schools every year.

Last year 82 one-room schools in the county were approved for state aid. Whatever may be thought of the cost and the motives in this movement, there can be no question, but that it is bringing a great improvement in grounds, equipment, sanitary conditions, teaching, and results.

In February a meeting of the Rock County Teachers' Association was held at Beloit. In spite of the very bad roads there was a good attendance and an excellent meeting. I had planned for other sectional meetings in other parts of the county, but the condition of the roads caused me to give them up. The inspiration and help of such meetings are of great value.

Since last September I have been to every school in the county, and have visited about 60 rural school teachers, and nearly all those in the villages, the second time. Many calls have been made on members of the school boards and patrons of the schools, and thousands of letters and reports have been sent to them.

A systematic effort has been made to enforce the compulsory education law, which requires 120 days attendance of children between the ages of 7 and 14, except a few excused for sickness, distance, etc. Hundreds of cases of families moving, and many other difficulties, make it very difficult to reach all cases. Yet most of them have been reached through calls, letters, and most districts show a decided improvement in attendance.

I realize that a year or two is a very short time in which to accomplish very much in either of these great lines of work.

The most that I can hope to do is to keep the work advancing a little; and I ask for your cheerful and able co-operation, so that our county may take a higher rank in all educational affairs. In no other way can you do as much for the interests of your county as to help its children to stronger, purer, and wiser lives—for that will make them more practical, more successful, and more desirable citizens.

In conclusion I make a few recommendations: Consolidated schools I have already spoken of, and I would urge carefully, with open minds, and see if you do not conclude that the objections would far outweigh the objections. I also urgently recommend some action which will soon change the condition in the superintendent's office. The office is full and sickening, and all the surroundings are disgraceful to place man or woman in. It mattered less when the office was vacant most of the time, but now there are one or more persons there all the time. I wish, also, to speak of a county agricultural school, and a county training school for teachers, which this county ought to have. There is a large and growing demand for them among the people, and this board would be warranted in carefully investigating these matters, with the view of establishing such schools here at some future time.

It is equally true that this county should establish a county training school for teachers. This has been asked for some time; recent laws and facts make it more imperative. Within a year there has been established such a school on each side of us, one at Whitewater, one at Brookfield. Both will draw largely from Rock County for their students. This means that Rock County will be paying large sums in other counties for the board and other expenses of these students. But it means much more than that.

It means that these schools will collect in taxes from Rock County 75 cents per week for each pupil from Rock County, as provided by our last legislature. In a few months you, as the county board, will be called upon for the first installment of that tuition money. These sums will soon amount to a large share of what it would cost the county to run such a school of its own.

Will it not be better to run a school of your own, with your own money, and also be drawing on other counties for a part of the expenses? Rock County is yearly paying thousands of dollars to other counties to help their schools. Why not keep some of it at home?

But I must not enlarge on these topics, important as they are, and will close by respectfully recommending them to your consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
O. D. ANTISDEL,
County Superintendent.

THINK GIRL IS DEAD
RELATIVES OF MISSING HEIRESS BELIEVE SHE WAS SLAIN.

Detectives Searching for Dorothy Arnold of New York Are Called Off the Case.

New York, Feb. 1.—Several relatives of Miss Dorothy Arnold, the missing heiress and the attorneys who have been assisting in the worldwide search for her, cast all theories of her disappearance aside and came out flatly with the announcement that they believed the girl was dead.

Those of the family who have heretofore refused to admit the view of Francis H. Arnold, the girl's father, that she was murdered, united in a statement for the press that they too had reached the conclusion held by the millionaire importer over since his daughter's disappearance on December 12. They denied that they had been influenced by any new developments.

Frank P. Garvan, counsel to the Arnold's, made a supplementary statement to the press in which he retracted all previous statements and admitted that Mrs. Arnold, the girl's mother, accompanied her son, John W. Arnold when he started for Italy January 5 to interview George B. Griscom, Jr. He added that letters from Griscom were found in Dorothy's desk the day after her disappearance and detectives were immediately put to work tracing his movements in Europe. Mrs. Arnold was not satisfied with Griscom's statements about the case and accordingly took ship for Havre for a personal interview. He refused to divulge the present whereabouts of Mrs. Arnold further than to say that she was still in Europe.

The lawyers said that all the detectives engaged in the search had been discharged on the theory that the girl was no longer alive.

PASSES HARBOR BILL

MEASURE CARRYING $38,000,000 ADOPTED BY SENATE.

Numerous Amendments Sends Act to Conference—National Waterways Commission to Be Continued.

Washington, Feb. 1.—After three hours of consideration the senate passed the river and harbor bill, carrying appropriations aggregating $38,000,000.

Amendments to the bill provide that $125,000 shall be spent to improve the Illinois and Mississippi canal at a point where it crosses East Branch creek. The improvements there consist of raising aqueduct 1, lock 4 and constructing a bridge and approaches.

Other amendments provide for the improvement of White Lake and Pentwater harbors, Michigan. The channel of St. Joseph harbor, Michigan, will be widened and deepened, and a shoal removed. Ten thousand dollars will be spent in dredging the harbor of Arcadia, Mich.

The life of the national waterways commission shall be continued to 1913, and it shall report on the feasibility of a canal from Lake Erie, by way of the Maumee river and Fort Wayne, Ind., to the southern end of Lake Michigan.

The bill as amended also provides for an appropriation of $100,000 for work on a permanent six foot channel in the Missouri river between Kansas City and the mouth of the river.

The original bill having passed the house, consideration of the amendments will be taken up by a conference committee at an early date.

The senate agreed unanimously to vote February 2 on the ocean mail subsidy bill. The request for such an agreement was made by Senator Gallagher. A similar effort has been made half a dozen times before.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

THERE is a certain astonishingly common little social sin which has three roots—one in impatience, one in egotism and one in selfishness. I wonder if you can name it from that description.

It is really astonishing to me to notice how many people, otherwise well-bred, are guilty of this offense against tact.

I know a dear little hostess, with charming manners for the most part, who continually embarrasses her guests at the table by breaking in on what someone is saying to ask if they do not wish to be helped to this or that.

Of course she only does this because she is anxious for the well being of her guests, but surely they would not be in danger of suffering the pangs of hunger if she waited for a lull in the conversation to offer to replenish their plates.

Instant and open interrupting of what another is saying by some remark of one's own is, of course, a fault easily recognized and promptly condemned, but there are some less obvious forms of interrupting that I consider quite as bad offenses.

For instance, to interrupt a general conversation on a subject which does not happen to interest one by abruptly turning the trend onto some subject which one does like, seems to me to be quite as bad as to break in when another is speaking.

And then it seems to me that the blank stare of those people, who always think of what they are going to say next while you are talking, deserves to be classed as an interruption. It is a silent one to be sure, but none the less irritating, as all who have suffered it can testify.

Another brand of interrupter is the person who breaks in with a pun or joke, or something he has been reminded of, right in the middle of your narrative and shunts you so completely off the track that it is impossible, or at least most awkward, to attempt to get back again.

I had begun with my favorite lead, a question, and asked, "Do you ever interrupt?" you would doubtless have mentally answered "Of course not."

But now that I've explained all I mean by interrupting perhaps you won't be quite so positive.

How about it?

For Washington's Birthday.

The red, white and blue of the flag seems to be the appropriate color scheme for Washington Birthday entertainments. There are so many pretty little things in the shops that may be used for this occasion. Boxes made in the form of drums or cocked hats, which may be used for salted nuts or bonbons.

Small flags tied to stand make very pretty decoration; they may be used to hold the place card.

Fondant made into balls and dipped into chocolate make very real-looking cannon balls, and if filled cannon-ball fashion add to the appropriately decorated table.

Cherries are, of course, the fruit most appropriate to the occasion, and may be used in numerous ways for decoration or on food combinations.

For a children's party, a nice little surprise cake may be made, using the ordinary sponge cake mixture, which is more wholesome than the rich cup cakes for the little people. Bake them in gem pans, the little brownie tins are a nice shape. When cold, cut off a slice and scoop out the center, fill them with preserved cherries, put back the slice and cover with a boiled frosting or dip them in softened fondant.

Pineapple Lemonade.

Make a syrup by boiling two cups of sugar and a cup of water together ten minutes, add the juice of three lemons and one can of grated pineapple. Cool, strain and dilute with one quart of water.

A delicious sandwich to serve with this lemonade is cottage cheese, well seasoned with salt and well mixed with chopped candied cherries.

French chops may be arranged on a platter to simulate a cannon and potatoes cut into balls and browned in fat may be piled to look like cannon balls. The potatoes should first be par-boiled until nearly tender, then browned in hot fat.

The Cheerful Wife

Some sage has written, "The cheerful wife makes the lamp of happiness shine brightly in the home." And it is this lamp shining across the threshold that illumines the world, one might add.

The cheerful wife has a bigger influence in the world than she probably ever realizes. Her attitude is reflected in that of her husband and often he is given the vigor to accomplish because her cheerfulness has helped him to meet his problems and solve them almost before they have presented themselves.

If the gloomy, nagging wives could only know the destruction they bring about and how many, many times they defeat their own happiness, there would be a revolution in the methods of wives the world over.

The man who has a nagging or gloomy wife can't go out into the world mentally fit to accomplish anything worth while because he doesn't get the inspiration he needs at the place and time he needs it. So he goes out among men with his own temper on edge and his nerves strained almost to the breaking point to be upset and lose his temper at the first smallest provocation, and it is superfluous to add that the man who loses his temper in the business world today is lost. There is a good of wholesome truth in the adage saying that "Whom the gods seek to destroy they first make mad," and one might add, "they also provide with peevish, nagging wives."

On the other hand, many a man's fortune has been made because of the cheerfulness of his wife. Such a wife seeks first of all to make the home a heaven for the man who is working to maintain and sustain it. Because she is the right type of woman, because she is well proportioned she seeks always to keep the lamp of affection burning. She may not be demonstrative, but she manages to let the man who has married know that her heart is with him in everything he does.

Such a woman is rarely disappointed and she has no reason or occasion to worry about attitudes or any other ill-considered interest occupying her husband's time or thoughts, for a man so buttressed and protected has no inclination to throw his time away or to divide his affection with any other woman.

It is more often true than not that a woman makes or mars the career of the man she marries, and one of the most pitiful in the whole world is to see a man held down or set aside in the uncharted sea of carelessness because he has been unfortunate in selecting a wife who knows no better than to worry him with every petty household affair and who is too thoughtless ever to shed the sunshine of real cheerfulness throughout the home.

It is no wonder such men fall victims to the vampire type of women. Men by nature are sensitive and particularly so in the matter of their home settings. A woman will as a rule, suffer in silence and hope against hope when she discovers she has married a man in a similar situation finally goes off at a tangent.

PEPPER NUTS ARE VERY RICH

How to Make These Favorite Small Cakes That Will Keep Well for a Long Time.

These are a favorite small cake that may be made in quantity and kept on hand for special occasions. Cream together one cup of butter, one of lard and two of brown sugar. Add three eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Then add the spices—one grated nutmeg, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and two of anise seed, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, four spoonfuls whole coriander, one cupful chopped almonds and one-eighth chopped citron. Next add four cups of molasses with which have been mixed two teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in a little warm water and four with which four teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar have been sifted, using flour to make a stiff dough. Knead with the hands until well mixed and smooth, then roll out on a floured board into long rolls about an inch in diameter. With a sharp knife cut two slices a quarter of an inch thick. Bake in a quick oven to light brown, and when cold put into a tin cake box, where they will keep for a long time.

Reason for Savage Custom.

There is a world-wide custom among savages and barbarians of burying food and weapons with the body of a dead warrior, sacrificing stock at the grave of the pastoral chief and burying seeds of grain with the agriculturist. More than that, the dead chief must have attendants to provide for his wants in the new world; hence the horrible practice of sacrificing human victims at his bier.

What household task?

Mrs. Clara H. Waldo, authority on rural questions.

Portland, Ore.—(Special)—That the solution of the problem of how to keep people on the farm lies in adopting the European plan of forming community centers throughout the country districts, where farmers shall live, doing away with the isolation of the lonely farmhouse and making country life attractive is the belief of Mrs. Clara H. Waldo, of this city, an authority on rural questions. Mrs. Waldo has long been interested in these matters, having studied them exhaustively, both in America and Europe.

"If this plan were followed, the country would be so attractive no one would want to live in town," said Mrs. Waldo. "I do not mean the old rambling country village but a modern social center, with clubhouse, library, churches, boarding house for the unattached and the aged, modern cottages, poultry farms, dairies, cold storage plants, electric plants and amusement places. "Young people leave the farm for the city because of the loneliness and lack of amusement features offered. By bringing the rural population together, where there will be a social life, they will be content to remain in the country and will, in fact, prefer it. The drudgery of farm life, as it is now known, will be relieved and country life will become a normal, well-balanced existence."

Mrs. Waldo's idea is taken from her observations in Europe, where, for the most part, farmers live in villages, going out to their fields in the morning and returning at night. She embodied her suggestions in a recent lecture at the University of Oregon, where she was listened to as an authority on the subject, she having been lecturer before the State Grange for some time and having made extensive investigations along this line.

MILWAUKEE MECCA FOR THE TRAMPS

GATHERING OF THE UNEMPLOYED IN THE CREAM CITY.

CONVENTION IS IN SESSION

J. Ezda How "Millionaire Hobo" Is in Charge Of Gathering—Conditions At Local Lock Up.

There has been a decided increase in the number of homeless wanderers in the number of homeless wanderers who have visited Janesville the past few days. Homeless men of the "hobo" type have been coming in for shelter from the cold, and many of them are seeking a place to sleep, and a place to eat. The majority of them are headed for Milwaukee, where the great "hobo" convention is being held. J. Ezda How, "Millionaire Hobo," and president of the Unemployed Brotherhood and Welfare association, and Secretary Com. D. Harvey are in charge of this gathering. They have arranged for the homeless city officials in the city to secure police protection for the delegates and to make arrangements for the brotherhood meeting in the Milwaukee city council chamber Friday morning.

The commissary committee has found a second hand gasoline stove and bought six tin cups. The coffee prepared in a large tin boiler. Tickets were distributed among the men and only sixty were allowed to enter the kitchen at one time. There were cakes, and bread had been set out. A bakery had sold them sixty loaves of bread for 40 cents, and the baker found a place where they could get other supplies at low prices.

The twelve men who were lodged in the lock-up at the city hall last night were turned out this morning to seek their breakfast, or go without one, on to the streets, or in whatever manner they could secure it. A good share of the number, however, headed toward the railroad intending to take passage for Milwaukee, where the big convention of hoboes is now on. On other days of this week, "delegates" to the big assembly have been arriving here en route for the Cream City. All are anxious to get to the assembly, and the hobo times which await them there. It is the heyday of those who have allowed the Wanderlust, to predominate in their lives.

During the cold months of the year particularly, the city lock-up is the haven at night for the derelicts on life's sea, the men who are "down" through misfortune and drift helplessly and thither seeking the opportunity to rise again, the outcasts of society, the huns and others of that ilk. Some of these are worthy men, men who can and are willing to work while others are of that class that bearing the name of men, do nothing to deserve the title, and will not labor to secure food and clothing to cover their backs until forced to. The latter class make up the greater number of those who appear often in the police court, committing some petty offense to secure the food and good quarters afforded at the police station.

In extremely cold weather the number of those who seek the hospitality of the city in furnishing them a place to sleep is greater than when the nights are mild. So far this winter the record is not very high, fifteen being the high mark. On other nights there have been as few as three or four, and the number is not much larger than that.

What are the attractions for men who seek lodging in the lock-up. Principally, a warm place in the corridor is given them where they may lie down. On a wintry night that amounts to a great deal for the man who is without a home, perhaps scantily clad, and is seeking shelter. Beyond that the inducements are few. "Michigan football" are not the soft downy couch that would hold to slumber a person troubled with insomnia.

It was formerly the practice to feed the men in the morning, a few cents being expended each day for coffee and bread. But the common council decided to cut away with this practice by cutting off the appropriation and the men must seek their own breakfast if they get any.

"LENA RIVERS" WAS A HUGE SUCCESS

This Wholesome Drama By the Frank E. Long Company Delighted Audience At Myers Last Evening.

The Frank E. Long Stock Co. are firmly established in the favor of our theatre goers, their performance of "Lena Rivers" at the Myers Grand last night confirming them as a "gilt edge" attraction. Miss Sullivan showed her versatility in her rendition of "Lena," ranging from comedy to emotion, covering the scale with a sure touch and making each note ring true.

Tonight "The Lost Trail" will be the attraction at present this play is packing the houses in the Eastern cities and has been one of the big hits of the present season. Mr. Long has taken particular pains to have every detail in this production absolutely correct. The scene of the play being laid at a western military post, surrounded by cavalry officers, soldiers, Indians, etc., there is a big opportunity for picturesque costume, stage effects and atmosphere, which has been carefully studied out, and every thing done to make this performance the equal of any $150 production. Judging from the opinions of the press in other cities where "The Frank E. Long Co. have offered "The Lost Trail" this season, their efforts have been crowned with success. Tomorrow, Thursday night, Bertha M. Clay's ever popular "Thomas and Orange Blossoms" will be the attraction. This play seems to grow in the public favor with each season, and it always proves one of the biggest drawing cards in the repertoire of this company, never failing to draw a packed house and to send the audience away delighted.

IMPORTANT CASES DECIDED BY THE COURT YESTERDAY

Supreme Court Hands Down Important Decisions in Cases Of Much Interest.

In but one case decided by the Supreme court on Tuesday, did the Supreme court reverse the decision of the lower court, the five others were sustained.

The following is a resume of the decisions. In the case of the State vs. William Welch, appellant, the court sustained the decision of the lower court.

Welch, a waiter in a lunch counter at Stevens Point, was convicted of selling oleomargarine for butter. He asserted he merely was acting as agent for the railroad company, which sent him his supplies from Chicago, and the appeal was on the question of whether he could be held responsible for the violation of the law.

The court also sustained the decision in the case of Martin Brinkman, resp., vs. C. & N. W. Ry. Co., appellant.

This was a damage suit for $10,000 for the death of Brinkman's son Daniel, 5 1/2 years old, who while playing on a breakwater at the foot of Lake St. Milwaukee, fell through a hole in the plank covering water main engines in the Northwestern roundhouse. Negligence was charged against the company, which replied that the breakwater was a public thoroughfare and it was not obliged to keep it in repair.

The court held with the lower court in suit of Mike Birmingham, appellant, vs. State, resp. Birmingham was arrested in a Milwaukee lodging house on Dec. 1, 1908, on the charge of participation in the looting of the State bank of Columbus, Wis., of $300. In the room was found a quantity of burglar tools and a revolver similar to the one taken from the bank. Birmingham and two others were convicted and given ten years in Waupun. The appeal was on the ground that the evidence was purely circumstantial and not sufficient to warrant conviction.

In the case of Frank Phillips, resp., vs. Fred Egert and others, appellant, Egert was arrested in a Milwaukee house on the charge of participating in the looting of the State bank of Columbus, Wis., of $300. In the room was found a quantity of burglar tools and a revolver similar to the one taken from the bank. Birmingham and two others were convicted and given ten years in Waupun. The appeal was on the ground that the evidence was purely circumstantial and not sufficient to warrant conviction.

IT BELONGED ULTIMATELY TO THE COUNTY AND HENCE THE CITY COULD NOT RECOVER IT.

The circuit court overruled the defense and gave judgment for the full amount of the bond. The surety company appealed. The court held with the circuit court in this.

The only reversal was in the suit of the City of Manitowish vs. Manitowish and Northern Traction Company, respondent.

An ordinance passed by the Manitowish council and agreed to by the traction company fixed the fare from Manitowish to Two Rivers at 10 cents. The company, after operating at the rate for some time, decided it was losing money and began charging 15 cents. The city sought an injunction against the increase in rates and the company replied that the city had no legal right in the first place to regulate the rate, that such matters were outside its jurisdiction and that the railroad commission only could regulate it. The city replied that the ordinance became a contract when it was accepted by the company and that the latter was still held by it.

Evanville Man Realized A Handsome Profit From His Fowls During the Past Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evanville, Jan. 31.—Charles Altman who resides one mile northwest of this city has a banner flock of chickens. Since the first of March 1910 or about eleven months Mr. Altman has sold 5543 dozen eggs and has received for them the sum of $1155. He had on hand the first of March last year six hundred and forty hens and during the past summer raised enough pullets to add two hundred and ninety pullets to his flock and sold one hundred dollars worth of young fowls to the market.

He has paid out for feed seven hundred dollars and twenty four dollars for male birds, and thinks that by considering the two hundred and ninety young pullets worth one hundred and fifty dollars, he's net gain for eleven months is about six hundred and eighty one dollars, or a profit of one dollar for each hen. This is a neat sum to realize on chickens and is a record few can equal.

He now has on hand nine hundred and thirty hens and the flock attracts considerable attention for when they are assembled in the yards at feeding time they can be seen for some distance on the farm are all of the white feathered breed.

Mrs. Jerry Young died yesterday morning at half past ten at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dempster Van Patten in Rockford. Mrs. Young had been a patient sufferer, being very sick with tuberculosis for the past four years. She was well and favorably known to many Evanville people and her demise is deeply regretted here.

She was born in the town of Union on what is known as the "Framan" farm and lived there during her childhood days. She moved with her parents to Evanville and lived here for a number of years when the family moved to Beloit and later to Rockford. Besides her parents she leaves a husband, two sisters, Mrs. Tremader of Beloit, and Mrs. Clark Morris of Rockford, and one brother, E. Van Patten of Indiana. The funeral will occur tomorrow at two thirty o'clock. Interment will be made in Rockford.

Sorenson Evans. Alex H. Evans and Miss Sorenson, both of Prescott were united in marriage at St. Joseph, January 29. After a brief honeymoon they returned to Prescott where the group had a home furnished in readiness for his bride. Mr. Evans was a former well known Evanville man and the news of his marriage came as a great surprise to his many friends here.

COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Rock County Medical Society Meets in City Hall—New Members Elected.

Two new members were elected to the Rock County Medical society at the first meeting of the new year, held in the city hall last night. The physicians who were made members last night were, Dr. W. Morrison of Edgerton and Dr. J. H. Stevens, formerly of Jefferson and a member of the Jefferson county society, and now located in this city. The meeting was in every way a success and following the business session some very interesting papers were read by members. The leader of the evening was Dr. S. B. Buckmaster. Dr. W. A. Mann, Janesville, read a paper on "Empyema in Children" and Dr. W. H. Judd, Janesville, spoke on the "Tape Worm." A paper on "Echinococcus Disease" was read by Dr. E. C. Holm of Beloit.

The February meeting will be held at Beloit, and the session will be along the local order with all the doctors of the county, whether members of the society or not, invited. A difficulty is encountered in the way of attendance as it is hard for those physicians from the places where there are no adequate transportation facilities, to get to the meetings.

THE LOST TRAIL

Cavanagh, Forest Ranger

The Great Conservation
Novel

By HAMLIN GARLAND

Copyright, 1910, by Hamlin Garland

Lise delivered a parting blow: "Bullfrog, you and me are old timers. We're on the losing side. We belong to the 'good old days' when the Park was a 'man's town' and to be 'shot up' once a week kept us in news. But those times are past. You can't run the range that way any more. Why, man, you'll have to buy and fence your own pasture in a few years more or else pay rent same as I do. You stockmen kick like steers over paying a few old cents a head for five months' range; you'll be mighty glad to pay a dollar one of these days. Take your medicine—this is my advice." And she went back to her cash drawer.

Redfield's voice was cuttingly contemptuous as he said quite calmly: "You're all kinds of asses, you sheepmen. You ought to pay the fee for your cattle with secret joy. So long as you can get your stock pastured (and in effect guarded) by the government from June to November for 20 cents or even 50 cents per head you're in luck. Mrs. Wetherford is right. We're all been educated in a bad school. Uncle Sam has been too lazy to keep any supervision over his public lands. He's permitted us grass pirates to fight and trample and burn one another on the high range (to which neither of us had any right), holding back the real user of the land—the farmer."

Gregg was silenced, but not convinced. "It's a long time that has no turn," he burst out. "You think you're the whole United States army! Who gives you all the authority?"

"Congress and the president."

"There's nothing in that bill to warrant these petty tyrannies of yours." "What you call tyrannies I call defending the public domain," replied Redfield. "If I had my way I'd give my rangers the power of the Canadian mounted police. Is there any other state in this nation where the roving of sheep herders and the wholesale butchery of sheep would be permitted? From the very first the public lands of this state have been a refuge for the criminal, a lawless man's hand, but now, thanks to Roosevelt and the chief forester, we at least have a force of men on the spot to see that some semblance of law and order is maintained. You fellows may protest and run to Washington, and you may send your paid representatives there, but you're sure to lose. As free range monopolists you are cumberers of the earth, and all you represent must pass before this state can be anything but the byword it now is."

The whole dining room was still as he finished, and Leo Virginia, with a girl's vague comprehension of the man's world, apprehended in Redfield's speech a large and daring purpose.

Gregg snarled. "Perhaps you intend to run for congress on that line of talk."

Redfield's voice was placid. "At any rate, I intend to represent the policy that will change this state from the sparsely settled battleground of a lot of mounted hoboes to a state with an honorable place among the other commonwealths. If this be treason make the most of it."

Cavanagh was disturbed, for, while he felt the truth of his chief's words, he was in doubt as to the policy of uttering them. He rose. "I must be going," he said, with a smile.

Again the pang of loss touched her heart. "When will you come again?" she asked in a low voice.

"It is hard to say. A ranger's place is in the forest. I am very seldom in town. Just now the danger of fire is great, and I am very uneasy. I may not be down again for a month."

The table was empty now, and they were standing in comparative isolation, looking into each other's eyes in silence. At last she murmured: "You've helped me. I'm going to stay a little while anyway and do what I can."

"I'm sorry I can't be of actual service, but I am a soldier with a work to do. Even if I were here I could not help you as regards the townspeople. They all hate me quite cordially, but Redfield, and especially Mrs. Redfield, can be of greater aid and comfort. It's quite often here, and when you are lonely and discouraged let him take you up to Elk Lodge."

He extended his hand, and as she took it he thrilled to the soft strength of it. "Till next time," he said, "good luck."

CHAPTER V.

VIRGINIA TAKES ANOTHER MOTOR RIDE. LEO VIRGINIA'S efforts to relieve the little hotel produced an amazing change in Eliza Wetherford's affairs. The dining room swarmed with those seeking food, and as the news of the girl's beauty went out upon the range the cowboys sought excuse to ride in and get a square meal and a glimpse of the "queen" whose hand had wrenched the old shack into a marvel of cleanliness. Generally they failed of so much as a glance at her, for she kept away from the dining room at mealtime.

Leo Virginia was fully aware of this small epithet and vaguely conscious of the light which shone in the eyes of some of their "Queen like" guests. She had begun to understand, too, that her mother's reputation was a barrier between the better class of folk and herself. But as they came now and again to take a meal they permitted themselves a word in her praise, which she resented. "I don't want their friendship now," she declared bitterly.

As she gained courage to look about her she began to be interested in some of her boarders.

So far as the younger men were concerned, she saw little to admire and much to hate. They were crude and uninteresting rowdies for the most part. She was put upon her defense by their glances, and she came to dread walking along the street, so open and coarse were their words of praise.

Few of these boarders had the courage to stand on their feet and court her favor, but there was one who speedily became her chief persecutor. This was Neil Ballard, celebrated (and made impudent) by two years' travel with a wild west show. He was tall, lean, angular and feckless, but his horse-riding was marvellous and his skill with the rope magical.

He had lost his engagement by reason of a drunken brawl, and he was now living with his sister, the wife of a small rancher near by. Virginia despised the other men, but she feared this one, and quite justly.

The Greggs, father and son, were in open rivalry for Leo also, but in different ways. The older man, who had already been married several times, was disposed to buy her hand in what he called "honorable wedlock," but the son, at heart a libertine, approached her as one who despised the west and who, being kept in the heavily country by duty to a parent, was ready to amuse himself at any one's expense. He had no purpose in life but to feed his body and escape toll.

The chivalry of the plains, of which Leo had read so much and which she supposed she remembered, was gone. She doubted if it had ever existed among these cantons. Why should it endure in ignorant, brutal plainsmen any more than in ignorant, brutal factory hands?

There came to her now and again gentle old ranchers—"strangers," they would be called—and shy boys from the farms, but for the most part the men she saw imbibed her, and she kept out of their sight as much as possible. Her keenest pleasures, almost her only pleasures, lay in the occasional brief visits of Cavanagh as he rode in for his mail.

Lise perceived all these attacks on her daughter and was infuriated by them. Her brows were knotted with care as well as with pain, and she incessantly urged Virginia to go back to Sulphur. "I'll send you money to pay your board till you strike a job." But to this the girl would not agree, and the business by reason of her presence went on increasing from day to day.

To Redfield Lise one day confessed her pain. "I ought to send for that doctor up there, but the plain truth is I'm afraid of him. I don't want to know what the matter of me. It's his job to tell me I'm sick, and I'm scared of his verdict."

"Nonsense," he replied. "You can't afford to put off getting him much longer. I'm going back tonight, but I'll be over again tomorrow. Why don't you let me bring him down? It will save you $12. And, by the way, suppose you let me take Leo Virginia home with me. She looks a bit depressed. An outing will do her good. She's taken hold here wonderfully."

"Haven't she? But I should have sent her away the very first night. I'm getting to depend on her. I'm plumb foolish about her now—can't let her out of my sight, and yet I'm off my feed worrying over her. Gregg is getting dangerous. You can't fool me when it comes to men. Curse 'em! They're all alike, every one of them. I won't have my girl mistreated. I tell you that. I'm not fit to be her mother. Now, that's the truth, Reddy, and this rotten little back country cow town is no place for her. But what can I do? She won't leave me so long as I'm sick, and every day lies her closer to me. I don't know what I'd do without her. If I'm going to die I want her by me when I take my drop, so you see just how I'm placed."

She looked yellow and drawn as she ended, and Redfield was moved by her unwonted tenderness. "Now, let me advise," he began after a moment's pause. "We mustn't let the girl get homesick. I'll take her home with me this afternoon and bring her back along with a doctor tomorrow."

"All right, but before you go I want to have a private talk. I want to tell you something."

He warned her away from what promised to be a confession. "Now, now, Eliza, don't tell me anything that requires that tone of voice. I'm a bad person to keep a secret, and you might be sorry for it. I don't want to know anything more about your business than I can guess."

"I don't mean the whisky trade," she explained. "I'm cut that all out anyway. It's something more important—about Ed and me."

"I don't want to hear that either," he declared. "Let bygones be bygones. What you did then is outlawed anyway. Those were three times, and I want to forget them." He looked about. "Let me see, Miss Virginia and convey to her Mrs. Redfield's invitation."

"She's in the kitchen, I reckon. Go right out."

He was rather glad of a chance to see the young reformer in action and stalled as he came upon her surrounded by waiters and cooks, busily superintending the preparations for the town meal, which amounted to a tumult each day.

She saw Redfield, nodded and a few moments later came toward him, flushed and beaming with welcome.

"Till glad to see you again, Mr. Superintendent." He bowed profoundly. "Mrs. Redfield sends by me a formal invitation to you to visit Elk Lodge. She is not quite able to take the long ride, also she'd come to you." Here he handed her a note. "I suggest that you go up with me this afternoon, and tomorrow we'll fetch the doctor down to see your mother. What do you say to that?"

Her eyes were dewy with grateful appreciation of his kindness as she answered, "That would be a great pleasure, Mr. Redfield, if mother feels able to spare me."

"I've talked with her. She is anxious to have you go."

Virginia was indeed greatly pleased and pleasantly excited by this message, for she had heard much of Mrs. Redfield's exclusiveness and also of the splendor of her establishment. She hurried away to dress with such a flutter of joyous anticipation that Redfield felt quite repaid for the pressure he had put upon his wife to induce her to write that note. "You may leave Lise Wetherford out of the count, my dear," he had said. "There is nothing of her discernible in the girl. Virginia is a lady. I don't know where she got it, but she's a gentleman by nature."

It was hot and still in town, but no sooner was the car in motion than both heat and dust were forgotten. Redfield's machine was not large, and as he was content to go at moderate speed, conversation was possible. He was of that sunny, optimistic, ever youthful nature which finds delight in human companionship under any conditions whatsoever. He accepted this girl for what she seemed—a fresh, unspoiled child. He saw nothing cheap or commonplace in her and was not disposed to impose any of her father's wild delusions upon her calendar. He had his misgivings as to her future. That was the main reason why he had said to Mrs. Redfield, "The girl must be helped." Afterward he had said "sustained."

It was inevitable that the girl should soon refer to the ranger, and Redfield was as complimentary of him as she could wish. "Now isn't a fault but one, and that's a negative one—he doesn't care a hang about getting on, as they say over in England. He's content just to do the duty of the moment. He made a good cowpuncher and a good soldier, but as for promotion—he laughs when I mention it." "He told me that he hoped to be chief forester," protested Virginia. "Oh, yes, he says that, but do you know he'd rather be where he is, riding over the hills, than live in London. You should see his cabin some

LIFE ISN'T

WORTH LIVING

When this Statement is Made It May be Generally Attributed to the Lack of Good Health.

We want of talk to people who are nervous, who suffer frequent headaches, who don't enjoy their food, who are irritable, quickly lose their temper, who are so exhausted that they feel they must give up, and have become so dependent that life doesn't seem worth living.

Most of the above described conditions are chiefly caused by what is commonly called catarrh, a "below par" condition of mucous membranes. This delicate lining of certain of the body cavities becomes weakened, inflamed and congested until the whole system is weakened, mental depression ensuing as one of the results. The wise way to overcome this condition is through a treatment of the general system. We have the treatment, and we are so positive it will produce the results we claim for it that we will supply it to any one with the understanding that we will return to them every penny paid us in every instance where the treatment is not in every way satisfactory and beneficial to them.

We want you to try Rexall Mucosa-Tone, which is a scientifically devised alternative (tonic and body builder), its action being to aid the body in its effort to reestablish the natural and healthy functions of the mucous membranes.

Rexall Mucosa-Tone thus acts to expel the "catarrhal poison," restore the mucous cells to good health, tone up the whole body, afford inflammation, remove congestion and stimulate the system to healthy activity. It is splendid for aiding in the building up of flesh and muscle tissue and removing weaknesses.

Come to our store and get a bottle of Mucosa-Tone, and after giving it a reasonable trial, if you are not satisfied, simply tell us so, and we will hand back your money without question. Surely nothing could be more fair than this. Rexall Mucosa-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Jamestown only at our store, "The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co."

The handiest thing on your desk—a scratch pad. Good big block for 50¢ at Gazette office.

time. It's most wonderful, really. Tilt walls are covered with bookshelves of his own manufacture and chairs of his own design. Where the boy got the skill I don't see. Heaven knows, his sisters are conventional enough; it's his love of being supervisor, but he won't live in town and work in an office. He's like an Indian in his love of the open."

POULTRY QUOTES

Lime is best supplied by giving the fowls access to crushed oyster shells. Milky milk will usually induce bowel disease among the young chicks.

Never forget that poultry requires grit and lime for digesting food and forming egg shells.

It is unwise to spend money for better chickens and then give them such poor care that they cannot do well.

If a male is not popular with the females in his pen he should be removed and another bird substituted.

Once or twice a year a wagon load of small gravel should be hauled from some stream for the fowls to work over.

When given with care, one of the best foods for young and growing chicks, and the laying hens too, is sweet milk.

The maintenance of productivity and vigor are essentials in poultry keeping, and when both can be realized the work will pay.

The young chicks should have fresh milk only, as sour milk is suitable only for the adults, being injurious to all kinds of young animals.

Although there may not be any visible lice or mites in your poultry house it is a good thing to whitewash it two or three times a year.

Feed the hens and provide them with good shelter, but do not try to keep them in a hothouse. Housing them too closely and warmly will soon result in the lowering of vigor and vitality.

Which Was Going Some.

"No," said Uncle Jerry Peshies, "I never claimed that I could spell all the words in Webster's spellin' book, 'cause I quit school when I was 14, but I could spell 'em all as far as 'antibiotic,' and there was lots of the boys that couldn't do that, let me tell you."

MONEY BACK

Formula for business success: Merit, plus advertising, multiplied by co-operation.

The Modern Version.

Little drops of water poured into the milk, gives the milkman's daughter lovely gowns of silk. Little grains of sugar mingled with the sand, makes the grocer's assets swell to beat the band. Little bowls of custard, humble though they seem, help enrich the fellow selling pure ice cream. Little rocks and boulders, little chunks of slate, make the coalman's fortune something very great. Little ads, well written printed nice and neat, give the joyful merchants a place on Easy street.

The "Silent Drummer."

An exchange says the merchant's ad, which goes into the homes of thousands of people and works while he is at home by his fire in the evening, has been styled the "silent drummer."

A Flattering Interest.

Shillally.

The shillally, which showed at Louth that it has not entirely lost its old importance as a factor in deciding elections, is no raw linch of a tree. It is almost as much a work of art as a well balanced cricket bat. The old shillallys were as carefully looked after by their loving owners as is a rifle in the wilds. Cut from the sturdiest of the young blackthorns, and showing a little taper as an ebony ruler, it was weighted with lead or iron at the end nearest the grip, so that its center of gravity was about four-fifths of the way from the hitting end. When properly seasoned by being kept in the neighborhood of the farm oven for a few months, it became a thing of supple steel. And the proper pronunciation of the name of this fearsome weapon is the melodious one of "shill-ally," with the accent on the "all."—London Chronicle.

Nurses for Animals.

Miss Virginia Pope is a New York young woman who hopes to establish a training school for nurses of birds. She also has a plan for training visiting nurses for dogs, as she says these animals miss the petting they get at home and a visiting nurse could give the proper treatment each day without the necessity for the dog's going to a hospital.

Happy By Comparison.

"Whenever I get lonely," said the first dweller who lives by herself, "I go to see two sisters who live in a long flat, one at each end, and who quarrel all the time when they are not speaking to each other. Then I come home satisfied."

Poor Opinion of Men.

Not only are most men worthless while alive, but they are so thin-skinned that you can't make a rag of them after they are dead.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Feb. 1, 1870.—Jottings.—Janesville consumes eleven thousand feet of gas daily. Father Doyle purchased the county buildings today, the brick building for twenty dollars, and the stone building for thirty.

The most of the ice is out of the river between the dams. The dams are there yet. Some ice is on our walks also and they exist too and not midland either where pedestrians fall.

An overcoat was taken from Apollo hall last evening and a poor one left in its place. The owner of the better coat may be found at Minor's shoe store and he is perfectly willing to trade back.

The time of holding the Rock County Sabbath school convention at Clinton is changed to the 22nd and 23rd instant, just one week later than formerly advertised. We hope all the friends of Sabbath schools throughout the county will note this change of time.

Yesterday while George Huss was crossing Main street near the Myers house, he was picked up by the till of a cutter and carried perhaps twenty feet, the till passing outside the boy's neck and pressing his head close to the horse. He was uninjured although he uttered a terrible shriek.

This morning everything out of doors was wearing white locks and trees were neatly arrayed in fantastic tinsels and every rose or lilac which ventured to thrust its stalks above the snow were neatly adorned in sparkling crystals, and even the dead leaves on the native oak looked innocent as they dropped like a willow, and as the sun touched them with his soft beams they attained a glittering white.

When the Snow Lies White.

The next day there is a fall of pure white snow; before it gets a chance to lose its snowy purity boys and girls should try making a candy deer to Canadians and Vermonters. "Sugar on Snow."

Boil pure maple syrup until it becomes waxy; that is, until a clean broom splinter with one end curled over to form a loop has the open space glazed over by this membrane when dipped in the hot syrup.

Prepare beforehand separate plates of clean snow for each child present. Remove the syrup from fire and drop quickly from end of spoon to form drops or strings on the snow. The syrup hardens instantly and is ready to eat.

Up in New England the boys and girls often have these "sugaring off" parties just as other children have taffy pulls.

Solid Pedestal Tables

The original and genuine solid pedestal tables bear our trade mark, which is in plain sight on the solid pedestal. When you come to purchase a table always look for this mark. There are imitations of our table but they are not the genuine Hansen Table. Do not accept this inferior table which is made to sell, not to satisfy. Insist on the genuine Hansen Table.
